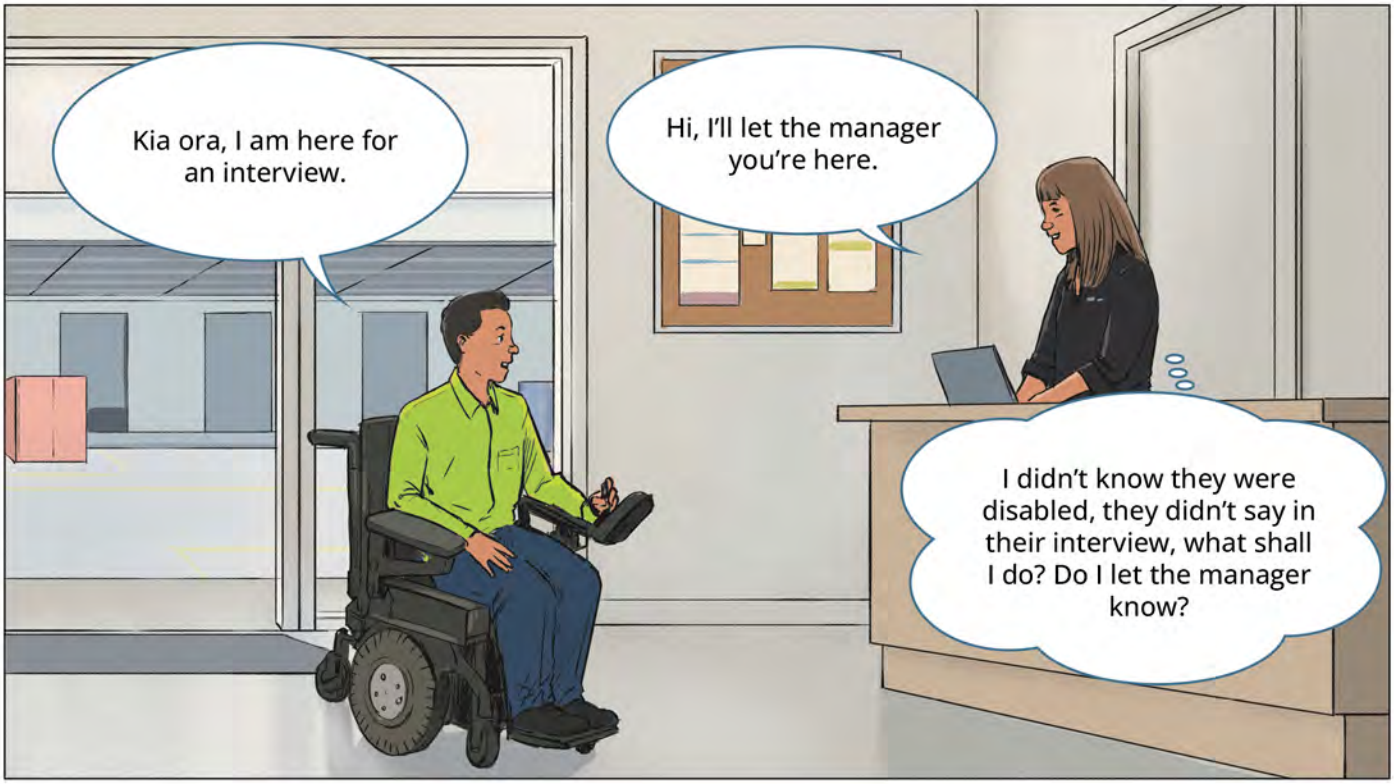
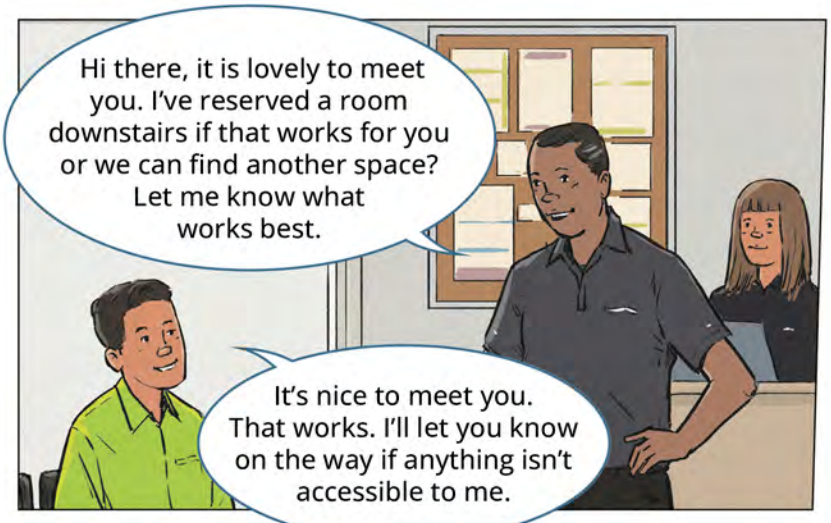
Asking what people need

Turning up at an interview





Don't feel nervous about disability, just ask people about the workplace supports they need. All your employees need support, this is a conversation for all of your team.

Visit:
www.allisforall.com/MELindustryresources

Communication in meetings

Communication doesn't need to be visible. Create ways for people to contribute non-verbally.

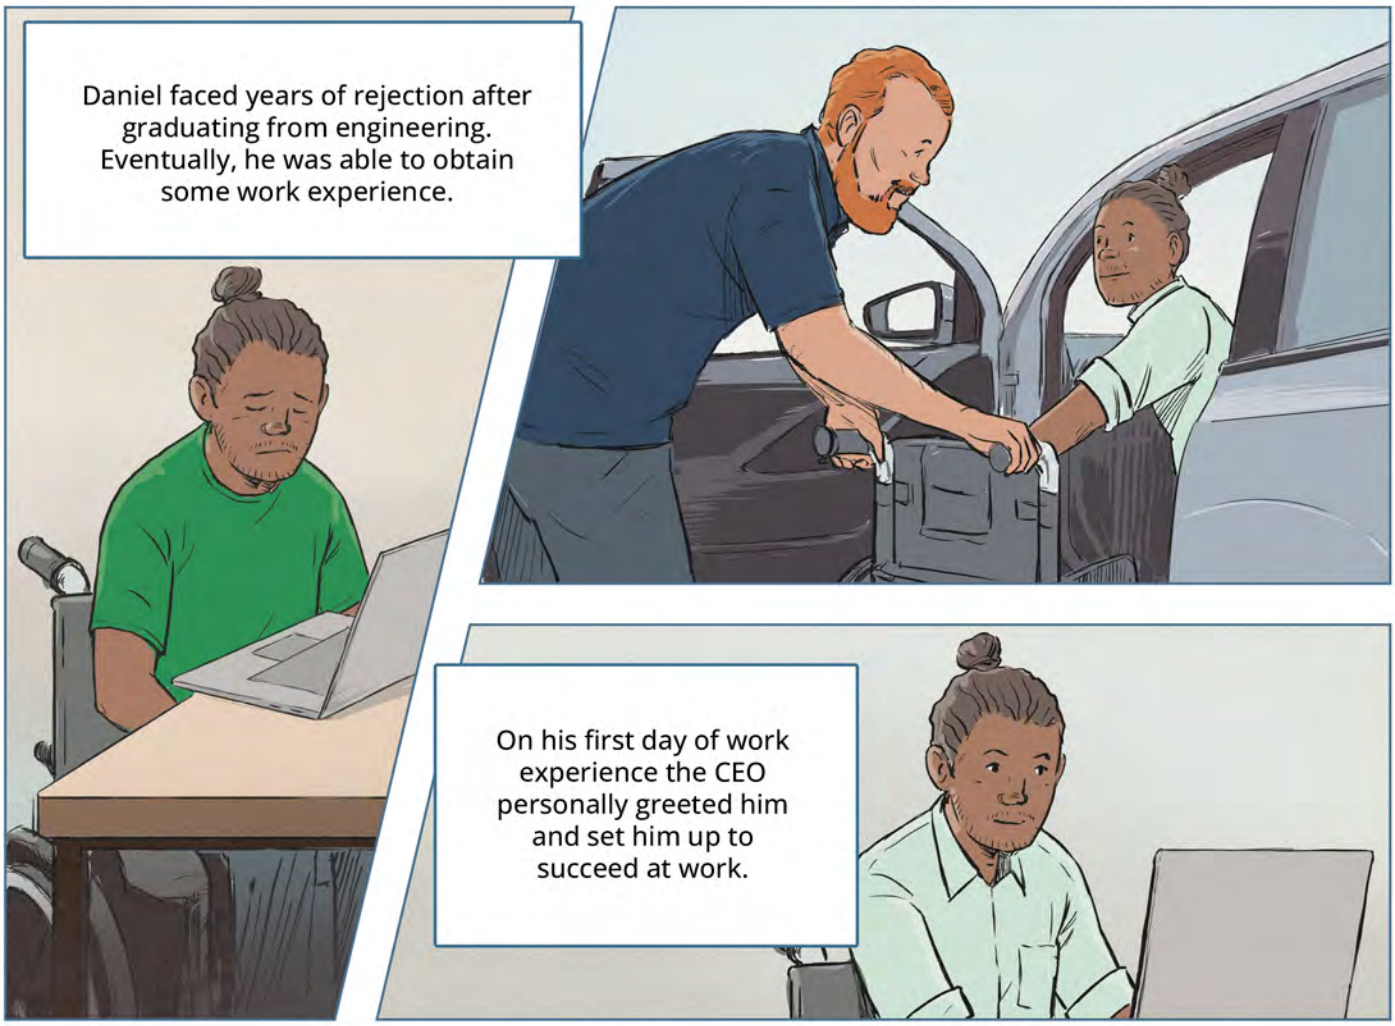
Like supplying sticky notes or providing documents about meetings in advance so people can prepare.

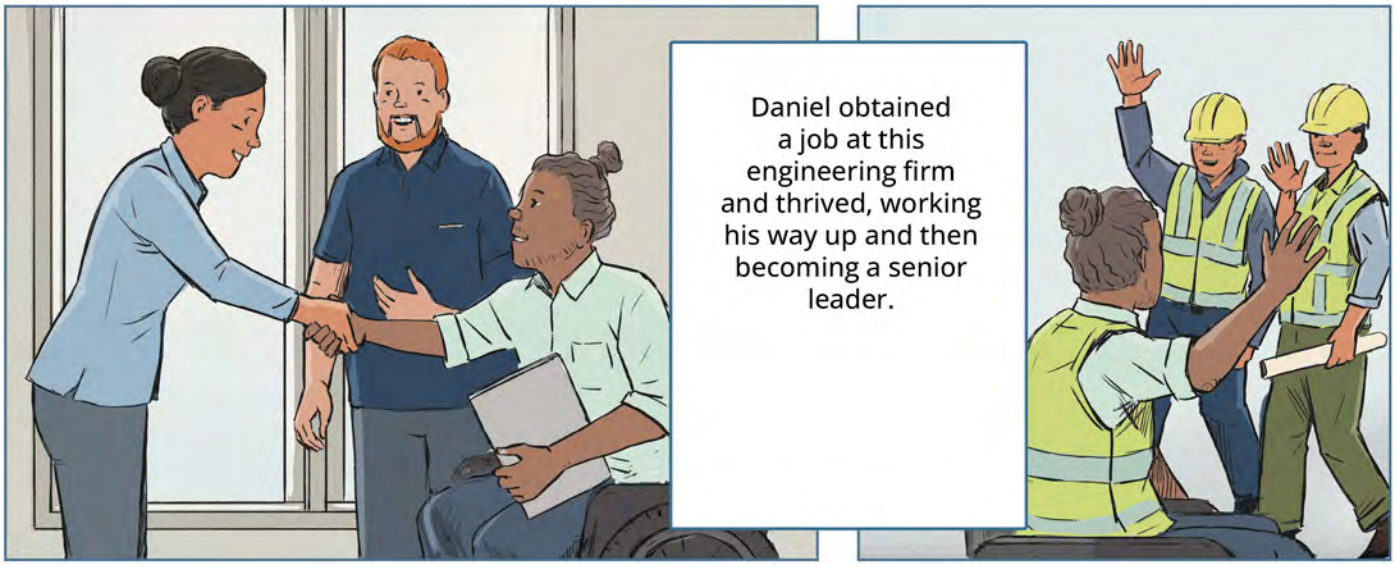
Talking about disability

Leaders need to talk about disability in the workplace and help others to do the same.

Visit: www.allisforall.com/MELindustryresources

From work experience to senior leader





Working together

